THE Compiler regrets that he had not time to arrange and classify the books under their respective departments of History, Theology, Biography, &c. The intelligent reader will correct this defect. A large portion of this Library was purchased in London, at sales, made by the executors, from the libraries of the Earl of SHREWSBURY, Marquis of ANGLESEY, Sir BENJAMIN HOBHOUSE, Baronet, and other deceased literary men of England, with their coat-of-arms, book-plate and autographs, in each. The prime cost of the library was upwards of $5,500, in coin. Many of the works costing from five to twelve dollars per volume.

RULES OF ROANOKE COLLEGE LIBRARY.

1. All Professors, Students, and resident Graduates are entitled to the privileges of the Library.

2. The sum of one dollar paid to the Librarian will entitle any one having the privilege of the Library to a ticket for five months, under the following restrictions :

1. No one will be permitted to enter the Library-room on the hours in which books are distributed, nor at any other time except in company with the Librarian.

2. Books will be issued by the Librarian and his assistants at such hours as the Faculty of the College may designate.

3. No one will be allowed to have more than two books at a time; nor must a book be absent from its place in the Library more than two weeks, except such works as the Professors may use in their College instructions.

4. Parties will be held strictly accountable for the treatment of books while in their possession; and should any book be injured or lost, it must be paid for or replaced by the one to whom it is charged.

5. The Librarian and his assistants must be connected with the College either as instructors or students, and must be treated with proper decorum whilst in the discharge of their duties.

6. The Librarian shall make a report every five months to the Faculty of the College, of the condition of the library, the additions of books, and of the funds received and expended.

7. Catalogues of the books of the Library shall be given to those having its use. They designate the books and obtain them at the door of the Library only at the hours of distribution.
